THOUSANDS VIEW THE PARADE TODAY

Washington Densely Packed With Visitors to Witness Turnout.

BATTLING 55 YEARS.

One of Most Euthusiastic Pageants Ever Witnessed in Capital City—Receive Many Cheers.

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Five thousand marchers today joined in the demand for votes for women in the most elaborate suffrage demonstration in the world's history. Suffragetttes literally captured the Capital today. They all but overshadowed the inaugural ceremonies tomorrow. From all parts of the country and from distant lands, every conceivable class of women was represented—every type, every profession, every age—from Baby Harvey W. Wiley, Jr., son of the former chief chemist, and being early educated in equal suffrage by his parents, to Miss H. M. Young, the 87-year-old pioneer in the equal rights movement.

It was the overwhelming culmination of a fifty-five year battle for ballots in the United States. It was both a protest against disefranchisement and a vivid, dignified, elaborate demand for equal rights at the polls.

There were three distinct features to the demonstration—the parade, a tableaux on the Treasury Department steps, and, tonight, a series of mass meetings.

That today's demonstration was distinctly for and by the women was the keynote forced home to all observers. The women evinced that theirs was no part of the inaugural ceremonies. Complete divorce—as a theme and idea—from the inaugural was emphasized.

Flower of American womanhood joined in the celebration. Society leaders in hundreds from all cities trudged steadily besides humble housewives. Actresses, opera singers and professional women whose names are known in every country joined with enthusiasm. Senators, Congressmen and leaders of civic and political life of the nation marched with the women.

Pennsylvania Avenue,from the Capitol to the White House was seething with densely packed humanity. Grandstand erected for the inauguration ceremonies tomorrow were jammed with spectators.

Flags, pennants, buttons, handbills, posters and banners of myriad colors, combined with the costumes of the marchers, gave "The Avenue" a kaleidoscopic appearance. Tons of suffrage literature were distributed. Streets and sidewalks were trampled with printed appeals for the ballot. Lustily lunged women held mpromptu suffrage meetings at street corners.

The city was in gala attire not only for the women, but for the inaugural parade. Buildings were ablaze with color. Intertwined with the guidons and pennants for Wilson and Marshall with those emblazoned "Votes for Women." National and International colors of the suffragists were lavishly used.

Women "hikers" came from New York, Baltimore, Richmond and other nearby cities. The largest was Gen. Rosalie Jones and her footsore feminine "army" which had completed its trip from New York, begun February 12.

Homefolks and visitors here abandoned everything to view the pageant today. The only desertion—in numbers or thought—from the women was the citizens' reception at the Union Station to President-elect Wilson and his party. But this crowd, massed at the depot plaza for the arrival of Wilson's special train, swept down into the Avenue in a wild rush for e view of the woman's pageant as soon as the incoming executive had arrived.

By noon the vanguard of the women paraders formed near the peace monument at the base of the Capitol—the eastern extremity of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Women and girls, in dazzling white flowing robes, on horses and a foot, marshalled th eforces of equal rights. Mounted on an immense white charger, in a long, loose yellow tunic, carrying a gilded trumpet, was Miss Inez Milholland, the celebrated New York suffrage leader. She was the herald.

On the crack cavalry horse of the army, was Mrs. R. C. Burleson, wife of Lieutenant Burleson of the army, acting as grand marshel. A score of famous horsewomen, including huntswomen of Virginia and maryland, were assistant mounted marshals.

While the parade was forming tableaux at the south front of the treasury front was being enacted. The signal of the start of the parade was relayed block by block up from the peace monument by heralds. Their megaphones were gilded in imitation of herald's bugles, and all were dressed in costume.

As the procession slowly swept up Pennsylvania Avenue, Miss Milholland frequently sounded the militant one of "Progress." A purple and yellow banner was suspended from her trumphet.

Hundreds of the marchers were uniformed, but the greater part donned "citizen's" clothes. The uniforms of every color, were long, "Portia" capes, full and flowing with a single button at the breast. "Portia" caps were the uniform headpieces.

Behind Miss Milholland marched ten ushers, carrying yellow and blue penants, and wearing light blue and gold caps and gowns.

The automobile, which belongs to Edward Warfield, sr., was proceeding west on King street, and was in charge of Robert Myers. The latter's brother Charles was with him Upon nearing the intersection the horn was sounded, when young Dunn was seen proceeding south on Washington street. Mr. Myers fearing an accident, had about brought the automobile to a stand-still when the young man ran his wheel into the hind right wheel of the auto. The impact was of sufficient force to throw young Dunn off his bicycle and he fell at the rear of the automobile. He was picked up nad hurried to the hospital. The accident is said to have been caused by the brake of the bicycle refusing to work .

COMPULSORY SCHOOL LAW.

Rev. C. R. Strausburg Favor Adoption of Law in Alexandria.

At the morning service of the Methodist Protestant Church yesterday Rev. C. R. Strausburg, in the course of a particularly eloquent sermon on the subject—The Children's Right's—advocated the enactment of a compulsory school law for Alexandria.

Mr. Strausburg preached from the text, "Suffer Little Children to Come Unto Me and Forbid Them Not; for of Such is the Kingdom of God," and discussed the rights of the child from various standpoints. Referring to the right of the child to an education he said:

"The right of children to be taught has never been so fully recognized as today. It is felt, and rightly so, that it is wrong and disgrace that any one child is left without a seat in the school room, or kept out of school. Let me say right here that Alexandria needsia school buolding and facilities that will accommodate every child, and then it needs a compulsory educational act that will compel the parent of every child to send it to school.

"It is not fair to the parent, it is unjust to the child for the government of this city to expend its money for every improvement possible,but fails to provide for its future citizenship. Let the schoolhouse be built, and if our present lawmakers through any reason fail to become interested,vote against them and vote for men who will stand for the children. I am sure that this city does not want to be in the rear in this matter, for advanced methods are being adopted everywhere, even in rural districts, and there never were so many people interested in educational methods and institutions. There never was such a widespread appreciation of the value of education. There never was better teaching and more of it."

THE WILSON CABINET.

William G. McAdoo is Opposed by William J. Bryan.

It is reported that William J. Bryan has insisted that no complete list of cabinet appointees be given out until he can have a confevence with the President-elect. Such a conference will be held this evening, and it is feared that trouble may result.

It is said that Colonel George W. Goethals, who has been offered the post of Secretary of War, has positively declined, and that a number of other men, including Judge E. M. House, Wilson's personal friend and National Committeeman Hudspeth, of New Jersey, are under consideration.

It is alleged that a letter has been sent by Mr. Wilson to a man residing west of the Mississippi river, and who is relatively unknown, asking him to become secretary of the agriculture. If this man refuses the place, Walter Page, of New York, will be named.

Meanwhile, the cabinet list stands as follows:

Secretary of State—W. J. BRYAN.

Secretary of Treasury —WILLIAM G. McADOO.

Secretary of War—House, HUDSPETH, or an entirely new selection.

Attorney-General—JAMES B. McREYNOLDS.

Secretary of the Navy—JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

Postmaster-General — Albert S. BURLESON.

Secretary of Commerce and Labor —WILLIAM C. REDFIELD.

Secretary of Interior—Not yet definitely decided upon

Secretary of Agriculture — WALTER PAGE (tentative.)

Labor Commissioner — WILLIAM B. WILSON, of Pennsylvania, (tentative.)

The impending trouble is all over the appointment of William G. McAdoo, as Secretary of the Treasury. Friends of Mr. Bryan have for the last few weeks been flooding him with telegrams, insisting that McAdoo's financial backer is the firm of Harvey Fisk & Son, of New York, which firm does a great deal of the bond business for J. P. Morgan & Co.

They say further, that Francis Lynde Stetson, Mr. Morgan's personal attorney, has been very active in urging McAdoo for the place. They have called on Bryan to protest against McAdoo, and it is for this reason that Bryan has demanded a conference before the cabinet appointments are made public.

WILSON LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON

Members of All Political Creeds Wish Him Success.

TEARS OF REGRET.

Genuine Manifestations of Love and Affection—Receives Loving Cup as Expression of Esteem.

Princeton, N. J., March 3.—Private citizen Woodrow Wilson, ex-president of Princeton Universaily, ex-governor of New Jersey, and tomorrow to be the first citizen of this republic, bade a final farewell to his townspeople here today. In order to make the leave-taking as impressive as possible, all political opinions were forgotten and Republicans, Democrats, Prohibitionist and Socialist fraternized

There were honest tears of regret on the stern features of the next President of the United States as he listened to the cheering and songs For 27 of the 56 years of his life he has been a resident here. Most of the joys and many of the sorrows of life have been confronted by him in Princeton and the demonstrations of love and affection beginning with Saturday night's great meeting at which he was given a loving cup, that was a avisible in mark of the feeling of the townspeople fir him, and culminating when his special train slowly crawled out of the station, with nearly every able-bodied man, woman and child standing uncovered, singing "Old Nassau" made moist the eyes of the departing President-elect as he waved his farewell from the observation platform of the train.

There was little hustle or confusion in the Wilson cottage today Plans for the leave-taking had been carefully made. Breakfast was an exclusive family affair and then came the hurried packing of the few remaining grips locking of trunks and bags and their transfer to the waiting luggage van.

As he has done every time that he has started out on a journey the President-elect packed his own bag mmediately after breakfast One thing which he handled lovingly was the little scarf-pin bearing the coat-of-arms of the United States on a shield which he will affix to his necktie immediately after taking the oath of office tomorrow and which will remain on his person every day during his term. As President of Princeton he wore the coat-of-arms of the University; as governor of New Jersey he wore the great seal o fthe state engraved on a gold disk and now as President with a wonderful record of achievement behind him, he will wear the seal of the nation.

The departure of the Wilson family from their home in Cleveland Lane was exclusively an undergraduate affair. Carriages and autombiles were in waiting when a delegation of fifteen from the student-body of the University marched down on the house. As they gathered about the porch the President-elect emerged from doorway to greet them and the strains of "Old Nassau" went swinging heavenward with a volume that was more than impressive. Later the party was carried to the depot.

As the train waited for the signal to start the governor listened intently to the cheering and singing outside. He was especially happy over the wonderful weather It was cold but the atmosphere was unusually clear and the chill in the air was stimulating.

Just as the conductor raised his hand in signal an dthe train began to crawl slowly out of the little station the undergraduates body started up the departure song, changed to fit the occasion:

"Here's to you Woodrow Wilson,
"Here's to you my jovial son,
"And we'll drink before we part the sacred company
"We'll drink before we part.
"Here's to you Woodrow Wilson"

And to the accompaniment of the chant another of Princeton's sons departed for higher and larger duties.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

In a running fight on the border near Douglas, Ariz., early yesterday between Mexican soldiers and troopers of the Ninth United States cavalry four Mexicans were killed. None of the American troops was killed or wounded. Four American army officers walking on the American line 3 miles from Douglas are reported to have been fired on by 40 regular Mexican soldiers patrolling the border out of Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas. Sixteen of the negro troopers of the Ninth rushed to the place of the firing, and a spirited skirmish ensued.

A wind that sprang out of the northwest just before noon yesterday tore between the down town skyscrapers in New York, at a velocity that at one ime reached 72 miles an hour played pitch and toss with light, movable articles in its path all over the city and suburbs. Several persons were severely injured by flying objects. In Brooklyn a child was blown from an elevated railroad platform to the tracks, but, though cut and bruised, escaped harm from the third rail and was rescued from in front of an approaching train. Many plate glass windows were smashed.

Declaring that no Catholic can speak for the church on the suffrage question, Mgr. William T. Russell, in his sermon last night at St. Patrick's Church, Washington, said that if the majority of women want to vote they should have the right. "But I cannot witness without a feeling of indignation a small, noisy minority (as it seems to me) trying to ride it roughshod over the vast majority of home-loving, child-loving women, and compelling them to accept suffrage whether they will it or not," he said. "I see nothing to be gained by woman suffrage, and I see much to fear."

A godfather and a godmother in the hospital, and a wrecked automobile, and a battered-up chauffeur under arrest, marked the fag end of the christening o fa baby of Leon Baremoski at Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday. Chester Karinoski, the godfather, is dying of a fractured skull, and Josephine Baremkesi, the godmother, is injured severely. Following the christening at St. Stanislas Church, the godparents were given an automobile ride. John Foerster, the chauffeur, smashed the car into a telegraph pole on Washington boulevard, and the occupants were thrown out. The baby, which the godparents took with them, was uninjured.

Mrs. Mabel Mills, wife of a wealthy landowner of San Antonio, Tex., lies under the care of physicians at an Evanton, (Ill). hospital, after either having lost or been robbeds of about $43,500 in that city Saturday night. A physician in attendance upon Mrs. Mills, after a consultation with the police last night, issued the following statement: "We are all practically satisfied that Mrs. Mills could not have suffered the wound in her head from a fall. The inquiry unquestionably was caused by a blow with a sandbag or other blunt weapon. She is suffering from concussion of the brain, and her condition is serious. She may not live 24 hours."

Olaf A. Tveitmoe and Eugene A. Clancy, both of San Francisco, two of the labor leaders convicted at Indianapolis last December on charges by the government of conspiring in the illegal transportation of explosives were released on bond of $60,000 each from the Federal prison at Leavensworth, Kan., yesterday. The order of the court for the release of the men was brought by Edward Nockels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Suffragettes last night were suspected of setting a bomb that wrecked the London and Southewstern Railway station at Davenport Eng., and probably fatally injured a clerk. The bomb exploded during a rush hour last night in the package-room of the depot, of which the clerk was in charge. No one else was in that room. The infernal machine broke all the windows, wrecked a wall and damaged the entire building. The injured man was removed to a hospital, where it was said he had small chance for recovery. Fragments of the bomb were found by the police, and it was said that they were similar in construction to pieces of the bomb found in the wrecked Lloyd-George home at Walton Heath. The police professed to believe that the outrage was the work of the militants.

U. S. SOLDIERS KILL MEXICANS

Huerta Orders Thorough Inquiry Into Reported Engagement.

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

One Hundred Rurals Said to Have Been killed and Many Other Rebels Taken Prisoners Recently.

Mexico City, March 3.—Provisional President Huerta today ordered a thorough inquiry into the reported clash betwen American and Mexican troops on the Sonora border. Reports of the alleged brush were not received here until many hours after the affair and there was intense excitement among the American colonoy and other foreign residents.

Official reports today fixed the number of rurales killed in a fight at San Julia, at 100.

Three hundred rurales, who had been close to Madero mutined in the suburb which is only a few miles from Mexico City and federals were hastily dispached there with machine guns.

The rebels were quickly subdued, losing one-third of their number dead and most of the others being taken prisoners. Only a few straggiers escaped.

The government intimated today that it considered the rebellious states practically pacified with the single exception of Sonora, where it was admitted that conditions were serious. Aguascalientes and Morelos was still beligerent, but the Diaz-Huerta organization was confident of bringing them to terms.

Douglas, Ariz., March 3.—Armed Cowboys continued to pour into Douglas today, anxious to take a hand, should any further trouble come as the result of yesterday's clash between Mexicans and troopers of the Ninth Cavalry

Curious persons continued to beat the brush where the Mexicans made their stand—looking for dead, but no bodies were found. The American soldiers reported that six Mexicans were killed and numerous others were so very wounded that they had difficulty in getting away, but sight-seers were unable to find any bodies.

FIRE HORSE INJURED.

While responding to an alarm of fire sent in at 12:20 this morning one of the horses of the Columbia Fire Engine Company suffered a serious accident in some unexplained manner while swerving to turn the corner of Cameron and Fairfax street. One of the horses fell and very badly injured both knees his mouth and one hind leg. Dr. Garvey, who treated the animal stated it is probable that the animal will never return to the fire engine, his fore legs being badly cut. One of the old engine horses which had been at the almshouse has temporarily taken the place of the injured animal.

THE CHANGE IN THE ADMINISTRATION.

For the first time in twenty years the reins of the United States government will tomorrow be turned over to the Democrats. Woodrow Wilson, who was elected by a tidal wave last November twenty-four hours hence will be President of the United States, with the majority of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives of his political faith. The new administration could not enter upon its career under more favorable circumstances, and the members of the rank and file throughout the country hope for the fulfillment of every plank of the the platform.

It is realized that the champions of the organization who now hold the cold end of the poker should be held responsible for their stewardship and no good reason can be adduced to show why the party should not for years to come have the destiny of the country continued in their hands.

There are, however, small clouds (some no larger than a man's hand) upon the otherwise blue sky and, they can be quickly scattered by proper procedures. The work of setting aside old and tried wheelhorses of the party, is to be lamented, but if all the victims of the manifestation of recreancy should act with the same amiability as the Virginia Senator (who has labored so long for the national success in the Senate), all will be well.

A more serious troubling of the waters has been brought about by the would-be power behind the throne, who is said to be acting the part of the Pretorian Guard in passing upon Mr. Wilson's cabinet timber. It may require considerable diplomacy upon the part of the new President to avoid a clash in his political family but it is hoped it may not become as desperate with him as a former King of England when he called upon his followers to rid him of a troublesome intermeddler with state affairs.

Bryan Deplores War.

William Jennings Bryan spoke in Raleigh, N. C., Saturday night to 8,000 people on "Peace," being a special guest of the North Carolina Peace Conference, which has been in session for two days. He was introduced by Governor Craig, who referred to Mr. Bryan as the greatest Apostle of the Prince of Peace on earth today, the world's foremost citizen and the highest example of real statesmanship.

Mr. Bryan declared that it was the imperative duty of the United States not only to co-operate in every way possible with the world powers in the furtherance of the world campaign for peace, but to set a shining example of disarmament. He declared the United States was peculiarly fitted in location and standing among nations of the earth to boldly take this stand. The speaker enumerated as the greatest factors that are making for universal peace the interests of commerce, the expensiveness of warfare, which had advanced from the bow-and-arrow equipment to that point which the purchase of one cannon would bankrupt a man, and nations were running into debt to build monster guns, increasing intelligence and the ever growing conception of the brotherhood of man.

SPINKS WITHDRAWS.

Declares He Will Not be Candidate For Clerk of Courts.

Frank C. Spinks, member of Council from the First Ward, who a week ago announced his candidacy for the Clerk of the Courts, a position at present held by Nevell S. Greenaway withdrew from the race this morning The announcement came as a complete surprise to the politicians of Alexandria as Mr. Spinks had been making a whirlwind campaign during the past week and had announced that he had sufficient votes assured to make his election certain.

Mr. Spinks stated this mornihg that the reason of his withdrawal was because he had just learned the length of time between the date for the primary and the commencement of the term of office. The Democratic primary for the office which is equivalent to the election will be held sometime this summer, while Mr. Greenaway's present time does not expire until February 1, 1915. Mr. Spinks said that even if he was elected to the position he could not wait two years before taking charge of the office.

Mr. Greenaway's friends are gratified at the announcement of Mr Spinks' withdrawal. While certain that there was no danger, of their candidate's defeate, they are pleased at being able to escape a long and bitter campaign.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mrs. Ryall Conway, charged jointly with charles Cramer, alias, Conway, with first degree murder, for the killing of Sophia Singer, of Baltimore, is in a serious condition in the Chicago jail hospital, and there is a possibility that she will not be able to go into court. She has "lost her nerve," as the police put it, and has been so greatly affected by the blood stained exhibits put forth by the state that it is feared she may not recover. When she awoke this morning it was with a shriek of terror. She explained to the women guards in the hospital that she had seen the dead woman coming toward her.

Scores of detectives searched the haunts of the underworld of New York yesterday for the automobile bandits who in one of boldest raids on record yesterday held up a Broadway jeweler in his store in the "White Light" district and ran to a waiting taxicab with a tray of jewelry valued at $7,000. Quick pursuit by the detectives caused them to abandon their booty, but two of the three men alleged to have participated in the hold-up got away by dodging up a side street. One of the men stood in the doorway and fired two ineffective shots at Moses Bach, the proprietor of the store. The robbers had shot the contents of an ammonia gun in Bach's face, nearly bliding him, he declared today. The chauffeur of the taxicab George G. Ferguson, was arrested and identified by Bach as having participated in the hold-up. The police think they may have another of the trio in William Anders, a partner of Ferguson, in the automobile business who was also arrested.

Word has been received in New York City through persons familiar with the affairs in the Catholic Church that Count Boni de Castellane, the former husband of Anna Gould, now the Princess de Sagan, has been spending Lent near the Vatican in an endeavor to get, through personal influence and the influence of prominent friends, the congregation of the Rota to declare his marriage into the Gould family null and void. The reason of this is said to be the desire of the French count to marry another American. It is said that the American woman willing to marry the count at this time will do so only according to the rites of the Catholic Church. Such rites cannot be obtained except on the official decision that the former marriage was not legal. The case has been before the congregation of the Rota once and was adversely decided.

The public temper is rising against the suffragettes in England. Wild scenes were witnessed in Hyde Park yesterday afternoon when several thousand broke up a suffragette meeting held under the leadership of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond.. Several free fights occurred and masses of turf torn from the ground were hurled at the speakers. It required a strong body of police to protect the suffragettes and escort them to places of safety. Similar scenes marked a meeting at Wimbledon Common. in both cases women were knocked down and bruised.

ROLLER SKATING.

Now the town is up in arms. What can be the matter?
Just because a lot of kids keep up quite a clatter
Roller skating on the streets after school is out,
Now that doesn't seem like much to make a fuss about.
Colts and calves and lambs and boys are very much the same,
Life is not a weary thing, just to them a game.

Youth must be encouraged by such games as these,
Course there'll be objections, some folks are hard to please,
And some are old and crabbed, and can't be quite in tune
With the care-free days of childhood, like the sun and showers of June.
But tho' I'm old and stiff and lame I'll dodge as past they fly,
For I haven't lost the memory of the happy days gone by.

One day as I was passing by the corner of King street,
A 12-year urchin skated up and knocked me off my feet,
And cracked my head and sprained my back and fractured several bones,
And made me recollect the way I treated old man Jones,
'Bout half a hundred years ago when I was young and gay,
I roller-skated into him in just this self-same way.

Now poor old City Council has to struggle with a plan
To regulate this practice or put it under ban,
And if they don't abolish it, some folk's will rage and cuss
And write to all the papers, and fret and fume and fuss,
And, if they do abolish it, they'd better hit the trail,
Or the kids will tar and feather them and ride them on a rail.

Well, March came in like a lamb and will doubtless go out like a meeting of the City Council.

It was an unusual thing to see a man on the streets this afternoon. There must be something attracting them to that suffragette parade besides interest in the cause.

We hope those girls finally decided who should present that petition to the President, without a rebellion.

There is a fine lawyer named Brent,
And, if you have sinned, you'll repent,
For he'll rise in his fury,
And startle the jury,
And soon you to jail will be sent.

Suffragettes Rehearse.

Suffragettes playing barrel organs, drawing pictures on the pavements, selling flowers on the street corners and signing suffrage songs, provided lively entertainment for the residents of London Saturday The women gathered a considerable amount of money. Yesterday's inauguration by the suffragettes of their period of self denial was attended by demonstrations. Crowds of people in the streets showed a hostile spirit and a numbore of wrecked barrel organs and dishevelled suffragettes was the result this evening. The police in several instances had to rescue women who had fallen into the hands of gangs which threatened to strip or duck them in fountains.

GIVEN SILVER SERVICE.

Congressman Lamb Feelingly Accepts Token of Love.

As a mark of their love and esteem and a parting tribute to the impartiality of their retiring chairman, Captain John Lamb, Democratic and Republican members of the House committee on agriculture today presented the venerable Richmond congressman with a beautiful silver coffee and tea set. The presentation ceremonies took place Saturday in the agricultural committees room.

Members of the committee gathered there and a few minutes later one of them went to Capt. Lam's private office and told him he was wanted in the committee room. Congressman Haugen, of Iowa, a Republican, made the presentation. He told of the love of the members of the committee held for Captain Lamb, and of the fairness with which he had presided over the deliberations of their body. Captain Lamb responded feelingly.

He declared one of the saddest features of his retirement from Congress was the parting with his friends and colleagues on the agricultural committee, with whom he has served for so many years.

The silver testimonial is a beautiful one. It consists of six pieces. The main, or centerpiece, is large, heavy silver tray. Other pieces are a tea pot, a coffee urn. a sugar bowl, a cream pitcher and a spoon bowl. The inside bottom of the silver tray is engraved with an inscription in the center of which are the letters "J. L." in large script. The inscription is as follows: "Presented to Hon. John Lamb, of Virginia, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, House of Representatives, Sixty-second Congress, by His Colleagues of the Committee."

Under this appear the names of Captain Lamb's colleagues.

NEWS OF THE OLD DOMINION.

PAROLES YOUNG MURDERER.

State Prison Association Will Educate and Reform Him.

Richmond, Va., March 3.—Sam Pruitt, a 15-year old white lad of Danville, who has served one year of an eight year sentence for second degree murder has been paroled by Governor Mann in the State Prison Association of Virginia which agrees to take charge of and educate and reform the boy.

The case of young Pruitt is of peculiar interest. He was born and raised amid rather inauspicious environments, with no opportunity for schooling having been employed in a cotton mill before he was nine years old. It seems that the lad, with an ambition to obtain an education, purchased some books and employed the half hour allowed him for dinner at the mil lin study. His young companions taunted and derided him for his studious habits, and two days before the shooting a number of them set upon and beat him when he resented their jeers. Frank Mahon, a larger boy, who was the leader of this gang and two days later, smarting under the treatment, Pruitt secured his father's pistol and shot his chief tormentor. His first trial resulted in a hung jury, but on hi ssecond trial he was given eight years for second degree murder, and began his sentence January 12, 1912.

In his letter to the Governor, President Charles Hutzler, of the Prison Association, stated the circumstances of the case, and promised to undertake the responsibility of reforming and educating the boy if the Governor would grant a conditional pardon. The pardon was also recommended by Superintendent Wood, of the State Penitentiary, who said the boy was a model prisoner, and R. C. Coleman, who defended him on his trials.

DISTRESSING OCCURRENCE.

Little 9-Year-Old Girl Kills Her 12-Year-Old Playmate.

Roanoke, Va., March 3.—The sixth tragedy to shock this community occurred yesterday afternoon at the home of John Graham, a wealthy Roanoke county farmer, living two miles and a half beyond Salem, the county seat, when little Lake Lambert, 9-year-old daughter of T. A. Lambert ,of Salem, shot and instantly killed her little playmate and next door neighbor, Bessie Barnes, aged 12 years ,daughter of J. H. Barnes, who moved to Salem from Tazewell county about a year ago.

A number of children from Salem were spending the day as the guests of the Graham family, Mr. Graham however, not being at home. Unprepceived by any of the grown people, the children started playing on the side porch, obtaining a .22 calibre Winchester repeating rifle from a closet in the back hall. Suddenly a shot rang out followed by a scream from the frightened children, as little Bessie Barnes fell dead, a bullet in her brain. The little Lambert girl, the unwilling slayer o fher friend, is prostrated by the accident.

The peculiar actions of a stranger who several times attended a revival meeting in progress at the Methodist Episcopal Chruch at Tunnnelton, W. Va., caused several of the congregation to make an investigation, when they found under the church building enough dynamite to blow up that entire section of the town. It was capped and a fuse 10 feet long had been attached. The man, however, had escaped from the town before the dynamite was discovered, but it was discovered, but it is thought he intended to blow up the church when it was crowded.

New York.—To draw attention to the lack of instructions of fire alarm boxes, Ida de Houghton turned in an alarm. She is now in the Observation Ward at Bellevue Hospital.

BLAME WOMAN FOR DOWNFALL.

Widow of David E. Linkenhoker Defends Dead Husband.

Roanoke, Va., March 3.—Mrs. Linkenhoker, widow of David E. Linkenhoker, who on Thursday afternoon murdered Mrs. Warren L. Painter and then took his own life, has issued a formal statement over his signature which was in part as follows:

"In my distress and humiliation owing to the awful tragedy of the murder of Mrs. Painter and the suicide of my husband, I cannot refrain from asking the privilege of correcting ,to a degree, false impressions which have been made by the newspapers' report involving innocent persons.

"I cannot fully exonerate my dead husband, but, knowing him and remembering his kindness and devotion to me and his family for about twenty-two years, I would be untrue to my self and his relatives did I not say a word in this hour of distress to show the world that he was not the man he has been depicted to be. He has been kind and considerate at all times to his family providing generously for them, and only recently had been lured to his destruction. All the blame seems to be laid on him. Where was the woman? Did she not continue to dog his footsteps? Her husband knew it for one month ago I went to her husband's house, and in his presence, charged her with interferring with my husband, and demanded that her attentions to him cease. Suicide and murder wasn't in his heart on that fateful day.

"Where was the woman's husband? Why wasn't she at home? Was she at home? Had her husband driven her out from his home? These questions, when answered, will prove that my husband was driven to his act by one who had all to gain and onthing to lose.

"If his wife and family can look with sorrow and forgiveness upon him, cannot the community sympathize with them and throw the mantle of charity over his faults and cause to make hearts of innocent relatives ache with pain and bring shame and humiliation upon others?

"His family begs the community to believe that he was a good husband and father, and died loved and respected by them, feeling that this great cloud which has come over them has come upon them by the unfaithfulness of another."

CAUGHT ON BRIDGE.

Youth Has Legs Cut off And Dies on Train.

Lynchburg, Va., March 3.—An inquest was held here yesterday by the Amherst county officials over the body of David Pharr Robertson, who died on a Norfolk and Western passenger train Saturday afternoon while being brought to Lynchburg. He was 18 years old and theson of Dr. David M. Robertson of Spout Spring Appomattox county.

He was returning home from Lynchburg and was caught on Six Mile bridge when he met a passenger train of the Norfolk and Western Railway. He started running but was caught by the train, both legs being cut off. The train stopped and he was placed aboard and brought to the city dying before he arrived.

AFRAID SHE WOULD HANG.

Negro Girl Begs Grocers to Let Her Off for This Time.

Richmond, March 3.—Pleading with the officers while being taken to jail that she would not be bad again if they would not hang her, Florence Brown, a young negro girl, was arrested early Saturday morning on the charge of stabbing a negro youth of her acquaintance. The name of the boy could not be learned but he was about 14 years of age, he needed immediate attention and he was hurried to the Lynchburg Hospital for treatment. He was badly knifed about the abdomen.

The cutting occurred on Salem street—the rendezvous of the trouble some element of the city's negro population—and is said to have been caused by threats of the negro boy to do bodily harm to the girl's mother.

The girl put up a piteous wail when officers took her in tow and escorted her to the station house .

MUST DIE IN CHAIR.

This is Believed to be The Fate of the Allens.

Richmond March 3.—It was reported yesterday that Governor Mann may not gives out his decision in the Allen case, until sometime Monday shortly before he leaves for Washington to participate in the inaugural parade the following day.

Personaly His Excellency is not doing any talking on the subject, and it is practically certain that the exact time of the announcement of his decision will not be known until it is actually made.

The latest surmises are that both the Allens—old Floyd and his son Claude—will get no mercy at the hands of the Governor. In other words they will have to go to the chair next Friday and pay the extreme penalty for their part in the Hillsville court tragedy, although it was generally believed until a day or two ago that the younger Allen's sentence would be commuted.

The Governor's statement will be in the form of a judicial opinion, it is understood, and will outline in detail the reasons for his action, whatever it may be.

Apparently he has completed his review of the case and is now preparing to draft his statement for the public, if he has not already done so.

BODY FOUND.

Believed to be That of Wife of Captain of Julia Luckenbach.

Warsaw, Va., March 3.—This afternoon, about 5 o'clock, Captain Will Haynoe, commanding the fishing steamer Dolphin, of the Morris-Fisher Co., fleet, while returning from Norfolk, found the body of a white woman afloat just off Windmill Point, Chesapeake Bay. The body seems to answer fully the description of Mrs. Gilbert, wife of Captain A. H. Gilbert, commander of the ill-fated freight steamer, Julia Luckenbach, when sank in the Chesapeake Bay on the morning of January 3, last, after a collision with the British tramp steamer Indrakaula. A coroner's inquest will be held tomorrow.

Salves Can't Cure Eczema

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:

Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D.D.D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 50 cent bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

We have made fast friends of more than one family by recommending this D.D.D. Prescription to a skin sufferer here and there, and we want you to try it here on our positive pay guarantee. D.D.D. Soap keeps the pores clean; ask us.
